NEWS AND COMMENTS.

The newspapers and the speculators on Wall Street will keep on giving it out that Jay Gould is sick until death until somebody will get badly hurt.

"The devil was sick—the devil a saint would be."

"The devil got well—the devil a saint was he."

The late W. S. Scott, of Pennsylvania, died worth between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. He was a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and was often heard to say that he would give all his millions for a sound digestive apparatus. Dollars don't count for much with a man who carries around with him a stomach full of buzz-saws. Ye who can eat a "possum supper" with "taters at 2 o'clock at night, wash it down with corn 'mash," and lie down to the serene sleep of the just, rest ye content with the less wealth and the more health.

LADY MANTON, a performer in the London Gaiety Variety Troupe, committed suicide a few days ago. Sir CHARLES MONTAGU was mixed up in the affair, but the London papers intimate that one higher than he could tell much of the "true inwardness" of the tragedy—Prince ALBERT VICTOR, son of the PRINCE OF WALES. "Poor folks are bound to see trouble," but the good Lord doesn't expect the rich and mighty. What with Tanby Court and ballet girls, Queen VICTORIA is having a hard time while her son and grandson "sow their wild oats."

The Ohio gubernatorial campaign opened at Ada on the 7th inst. The conspicuous abilities of the two party antagonists, leading the van in a political struggle which is to continue from now until near the close of 1892; the magnitude of the issues involved; the complexion which the result, either way, will give to the Presidential ticket; and the fact that Ohio is a great battle-ground; and the fact that this will make the campaign one of surpassing interest. So far, in the outward manifestation of enthusiasm, CAMPBELL seems to be carrying off the honors.

How crowded up every day of human life is with tragedy! The other night DANIEL MURPHY, of Hook & Ladder Co., No. 8, New York city—a fine, stalwart fireman, exulting in the happiness of new-wedded love—sprang to his post at the tap of the alarm-bell, and the spirited, trained horses dashed away with him to the scene of the fire. It was at the corner of Hudson and Dominick streets, and the fire-engine which the unhappy man mounted to ride to the room in which slept his wife. A few minutes later he made his awful descent to the pavement—the ghastly burden of his dead bride of a month in his arms.

There is such a thing as "getting the wrong saw by the ear," "taking the wrong bull by the horns," "waking up the wrong passenger," etc., and you may apply whichever of these similes most strikes your fancy to Gov. CAMPBELL, of Ohio. At any rate, the New York Boomer and certain Cincinnati papers, which have been publishing slanderous articles about him (of course for partisan effect) discover that they have "put their foot in it" very deep—to use a style of Eastern allegory, as Mr. "Bob Sawyer" would say. Gov. CAMPBELL is to be neither blackmailed nor bullied, and these enterprising journals are given to understand that either unequal retractions or vigorous suits for libel are next in order.

The King of Wurttemberg is dead—and we doubt not that many of our readers will say just here: "and who in thunder was the 'King of Wurttemberg?'" Well, King KARL was a harmless, weak-minded old gentleman of 67 years, whose forbears used to live in a duchy, which was erected into a kingdom about eighty years since, and KARL has wielded the sceptre. He was an "Americo-maniac," and took such a violent fancy for a New Yorker named JACKSON who appeared at his court as to give him a princely salary as the "king's reader," and bestow upon him a noble title. His subjects did not share in this punctum, and came very near forcing their monarch's abdication. King KARL was splendidly allied, his wife being the Princess OLGA, daughter of the Czar NICHOLAS of Russia.

ONE can hardly realize that in this age of civilization one part of a nation could be literally starving to death with the whole world—the whole powerful, rich world—looking on. The accounts of the famine prevailing in great districts of Russia are heartrending. "Well," the reader thinks, "they are away off on another part of the earth, and they are barbarians, little better than savages, anyway." This is a mistake. They are a simple-minded, harmless people. Two or three years ago the writer lay for weeks, cot to cot, in a surgical ward of the Pennsylvania hospital, by a Russian peasant, who, at work on the streets of Philadelphia, received a fearful injury. He could barely speak intelligible English, was rude and ignorant, but it is seldom one meets with a man of more innate courtesy and a purer heart than he. The poor fellow never again saw the outside of the hospital.

SOME men are gifted with the faculty of accurately studying the "tide in the affairs of man," and floating thereon at the turn of fortune—of recognizing opportunity, and pressing it into service at critical points in their lives. These are the men endowed with the genius of success, and they rise to brilliant heights in the world's esteem to renown and the gratification of ambition. PARNELL's life—his later life—was marked by a series of "aggregous blunders and of obstructions to his own desire; and, while it would be unjust to apply to him the epigram that "nothing in all his life so much became him as his leaving it," it is certain that he died at the right time, for he had "outlived his usefulness." With all this, he was beyond question a patriot, and, in intellect and all the remarkable qualities which make leaders of men, he was the greatest Irishman of this century.

BABY M'KEE AND BABY CLEVELAND.

"Keep off the Grass"—Cleveland Colors Floating in Washington.

Correspondence Atlanta Journal.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 8. —The birth of the Cleveland baby is the constant theme of social talk in Washington, and the event promises to have a two weeks' run. Perhaps no lady ever entered the White House as its mistress who was more beautiful than Mrs. Cleveland. In this beautiful city a lovely woman is a novelty, and so Mr. Cleveland's young wife captured the hearts of the populace as soon as she became known.

It is related that Mrs. Cleveland was anxious for the first baby to be a boy, and Mr. Cleveland was so biased the same way that when Dr. Bryant, the family physician, formed him on the back, and in the little girl, Grandmother Cleveland, the father's shoulders, and exclaimed, "Oh, pshaw!"

It is said that Mr. Cleveland is strongly in favor of christening the baby Frances, but in this he is opposed by Mrs. Cleveland herself, who rather prefers the name of Florence. When she was at school she had a very dear schoolmate named Florence, and when they used to talk of the future and what it held in store for them, they sacredly promised each other that in the event they each married and had children they would give the first girl the name of the other. Mrs. Cleveland's friend married long ago, and kept this compact, and it is Mrs. Cleveland's turn now to keep her word. Mr. Cleveland, however, may want his way, as he used to want it when he was President, and the wife may have to yield. Mrs. Cleveland's mother does not like either of the names, Florence or Frances, but prefers Elizabeth as the proper name for the tot.

Everybody seems to agree that the baby is a miniature of the mother, although one mother in Israel thought that she saw a resemblance to Grover about the top of the infant's head. Weighed in three different scales, one of which came from a neighboring grocer's, and the beam tipped at nine pounds and three ounces. This is a luscious baby, sure enough.

Every Washington Democrat who had a flag in the house hung it out yesterday. Away west in the fashionable quarter, where the big officials and the enormously rich people live, the national colors were not very common, but in all of the downtown districts, upon, and over Capitol Hill and out in old Georgetown, where the Southern element is very strong, ten thousand little banners fluttered gaily in the crisp October air.

Nor was this all. A precocious Democratic lad climbed up on the big stone posts that guard each side of the main entrance of the White House, and planted Baby Cleveland's colors there. Later in the day some wag wrote a legend on the gateway that ran thus: "Baby McKee to Baby Cleveland—Keep off the grass."

The Comte de Chambord and His Grandfather—Rather "Play Horse" than be King.

Perhaps no heir to a throne ever received the news of his accession more carefully and modestly than did the Duc de Bordeaux, better known as the Comte de Chambord, who had he actually become King, would have been Henry V. of France. He was in his tenth year at the time, and deeply interested in driving four-in-hand a carriage and horses made archaisms. Naturally he looked upon the announcement of his change of title as a frivolous interruption. Madame de Gontaut-Biron, the little prince's governess, tells the story:

At Rambouillet, on the 2nd of August, in the morning, the old King summoned his son, the Duc d'Angoulême, and the Duchesse, the Baron de Damas, the Duchesse de Gontaut and the Duc de Bordeaux and his sister. He took the little boy on his knee, embraced him tenderly, and turned away.

"Here is my abdication," he said, taking a paper from the table.

The King's little granddaughter said in a low tone to the Duc de Bordeaux: "Some misfortune is going to befall us, my brother; every one is looking at us and crying. Let us go and pray to the good God, and they will walk softly away to the balcony, where they knelt down."

An hour later the two children had constructed a carriage and horses of chairs, and the Duke, on a high seat, was driving four-in-hand. The Baron Damas entered and bowed.

"There was a silence. 'Sire! I am commissioned to tell you that the King, your august grandfather, not being able to make France happy, in spite of his heart and wish to do so, has abdicated the throne, and you, monsieur, will be King, under the name of Henry V.'"

The child looked down from his seat, put his hands on the Baron's shoulders and looked up into his face.

"Grandpapa, who is so good, is not able to make France happy, and so they want to make me King? What nonsense! He shrugged his shoulders. 'But, monsieur, what you say is impossible.'"

He had already picked up his whip and his reins.

"Come, sister, let's play," and he remounted his driver's seat.

Possibly years later when his supporters had attempted to make him King and failed, he repeated that youthful comment; certainly France, figuratively speaking, shrugged her shoulders, said, "What nonsense!" and turned her attention to other matters.

Take It Home to Yourself.

Nashville Advocate.]

You think that your children are stubborn, thoughtless, and perhaps ungrateful. When this thought comes to you, it will be well for you to reflect on your own youth. Were you a model son or daughter? Did you always obey without hesitation? Did your conduct never bring the hot tears to the eyes of your parents? Are you entitled to receive more attention and respect from your offspring than you gave to your father and mother?

THE OLD SLAVE DAYS.

Nat Turner's War—Extermination over Rumors of Insurrection in North Carolina.

S. B. Weeks in Magazine of American History.]

The celebrated insurrection of slaves in Virginia in 1831, headed by "Old Nat Turner," was followed by intense excitement in North Carolina. During the first week in September a slave of Thomas K. Morrissey, of Sampson county, was arrested, and confessed that the slaves had laid a plot to muster what forces they could in Sampson, and march on to Wilmington, where they expected additions to their numbers. Rumors of this threatened invasion reached Wilmington, and caused great excitement. The citizens turned out, companies were formed, all things were put in readiness, and in less than two hours two hundred men were under arms. Troops took possession of the roads leading to the city; couriers were coming and going; captains and colonels were monarch of all. In Burke and Rutherford counties, North Carolina, rumors were rife that the slaves working in the gold mines were organizing. Many arrests were made, and a plot was discovered. In Richmond county some twenty were imprisoned, and iron spears for carrying on their fiendish purpose are said to have been found.

Baleigh was in alarm. News had reached there that Wilmington was in the hands of the blacks, and had been burned. A man from Johnston county ran his horse to death to ask the people of Raleigh for aid. Every free negro in the place was taken up, and his means of subsistence were inquired into; if he could give no satisfactory account of himself, he was thrown into prison, or ordered to leave the town at once. The able-bodied men were organized into four companies, to patrol the streets nightly by turns. The old men were allowed to remain in the town, but the Presbyterians and the Episcopalians agreed that when the bell of the capital rang out the women and children should hasten there for protection. They watched and waited in anxious fear. One night "Rouke's blacksmith shop took fire; the capital bell rang out its shrill peal of alarm. It was heard from one end of the town to the other. The slumbering city was transformed into a terror-stricken multitude; the last day and the inevitable time had come; Nat Turner and his followers agreed upon them, for this was the signal agreed upon for the revolt. The town was filled with their masters; they fled down houses, hid in shrubbery, lay down between corn-rows—anything to escape destruction. The women, with hair disheveled and in night-clothes, fled through the streets, with ever-increasing speed, for their place of refuge. It was a matter of life and death to them, and heartfelt were the thanks for deliverance when the true cause of the alarm was known.

Nat Turner's insurrection caused the State of Virginia to be armed. The legislature passed stringent laws against slaves, free negroes and mulattoes, forbade their meeting, punished them for words, proscribed their instruction and arrested their preachers. In North Carolina no freeman was allowed to employ his time as a freeman, no negroes were allowed to preach, to hawk or to peddle without a license, nor to own or to make use of a deadly weapon. The patrolling system became more exacting, masters became more suspicious, and insisted on greater surveillance of their slaves. A question against the doctrine of emancipation, which was then gaining ground, and nothing whatever was secured by the outbreak.

Boulanger in America.

Richmond Dispatch.]

General Boulanger, whose dramatic suicide startled France especially and the world in general on Wednesday, was here in Richmond on October 21, 1881. He came to this city from Yorktown, as a member of the delegation sent by France to do honor to the occasion of the unveiling of the monument there, commemorative of the hundredth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to General Washington. Along with the French delegation was one from Germany, sent by the Emperor of Germany, and one from the French officers was Captain St. George Tucker Mason, a brother of Mrs. Archer Anderson, who, having done his duty to the Confederacy, went abroad after the war, was commissioned by Napoleon III., and rose to high rank before his death occurred.

On the night of the arrival here of Rochambeau, Von Steuben, Boulanger and other distinguished guests there was a grand ball given at the Allan House, on the south-east corner of Main and Fifth streets, which was for a long time the most brilliant and the most popular. It was occupied by Mr. Allan, who adopted and educated Edgar Allan Poe, and from whom the Allan in Poe's name was taken.

The house was at that time vacant, and a committee of ladies took it in charge and furnished and decorated it so as to make it very presentable indeed. At that time Boulanger was the favorite general of the French army. A number of Richmond ladies had the honor of dancing with him that night, and by the way, the young Duc d'Orléans, who was then in America, not long ago with the Count of Paris's party) is a son of the lady who furnished Boulanger his campaign fund of several millions of dollars, with which to inaugurate a revolution in France with the hardly concealed purpose of restoring the House of Orleans to the throne.

When General Boulanger was at the ball in Richmond he was a very handsome man, about thirty years of age, with fair complexion and light blonde moustache. He wore a cavalry uniform, consisting of a blue coat, red pantaloons, high-top boots, with gold tassels, and a chapeau similar to that worn by a staff officer. The coat was covered with gold lace, and his left breast blazed with stars and orders. General Boulanger was said to be at that time the youngest general in the French army.

A Year and a Day.

In ancient British law a year and a day was the time fixed within which certain things could be lawfully done. Under this law it was necessary to claim estrayed stock within a year and a day, otherwise it became the property of the lord of the manor.

A BILLION DOLLARS.

An Attempt to Commemorate this Great Sum.

Detroit Free Press.]

The 51st Congress during its two sessions made appropriations aggregating $1,008,000,000. Did it ever strike you what that much money meant in material form? The dollar bill now in use is just 7 1/4 inches long, and 1,008,000,000 of them would occupy a space of 7,556,400,000 inches, in round numbers, 120,000 miles—almost half the distance to the moon—a band of dollar bills five times around the earth, or a belt of dollars 15 inches wide clear around the equator.

A dollar bill, by exact measurement, contains 22 1/2 square inches, and 1,008,000,000 would contain 22,680,000,000 square inches, or 3,316 square acres; so we then have a carpet of dollar bills spreading over 5 or more square miles of territory.

One hundred dollar bills may be compressed into a space 1 inch in height, and 1,008,000,000 of them would rise into a monument whose apex would be 160 miles above the surface of the earth. Counting 100 dollars a minute, a bank clerk would require 1,680 working days, or 10 hours each to tell out this money; rather a long time for a customer to wait outside the counter for his cash.

In silver dollars this vast sum would weigh 31,500 tons—that is, 1,575 car-loads. An army of 441,000, each carrying 150 lbs., would be required to move the pile; and, if the dollars were laid one upon another, 8 to the inch, they would rise, a monument of silver, 1,987 miles high—some distance further up than is the Grant monument at New York.

Paying $50 an acre for land, this money would buy 201,600 100 acre farms; and, paying the Government price of $1.25 per acre, it would purchase five States of the size of Texas and twenty-five of the size of Michigan.

It would pay the salary of the President of the United States for 20,100 years—that is, of the next 5,040 Presidents, and would be ample to pay the wages of the Vice-Presidents for 126,000 years, or of the next 31,500 of them.

A private soldier in the regular army could draw his full wages from this enormous sum of money, without exhausting it, for nearly 6,400,000 years.

It would furnish to a thirsty multitude 21,600,000 glasses of beer—say a little more than 20 each for every man, woman and child on earth.

It would, if distributed, give to every State in the Union twenty-four millionaires, and it would pay the salaries of two Senators from every State for 2,300 years.

Imagine this vast pile of treasure saddled on one man as his private fortune; and, at the Government rate of 4 per cent. interest, it would give him an income, in round numbers, of $40,000,000 a year, $14,000 a day, $4,750 an hour, $80 a minute, $1.33 a second.

And yet the whole sum wouldn't buy a single breath of life for a dying man, or do him a particle of good after the breath had left his body.

Gough's Apostrophe to Water.

Look at this, ye thirsty sons of earth! Behold it! See its purity! It is a beverage loved by the lambs of the Almighty Himself! Not in the shimmering still of smoking fires, choked with poisonous gases, and surrounded by the stench of sickening odors and rank corruption, does our Father in Heaven prepare the precious essence for the use of his creatures, but in the green glade and grassy dell, where the deer wanders and the child loves to play. There God brews it; and down in the deep valley, where the fountains murmur and the rills sing—and high upon the tall mountain tops, where the storm-clouds shed their liquid treasures—there, far from the world, where the hurricane howls music and the big waves roll, the chorus swelling the march of God; there he brews it—that beverage of health-giving water.

And everywhere it is a thing of beauty—glimmering in the summer rain, shining in the ice gem, till the trees all seem to be turned into living jewels; spreading a veil of gold over the setting sun or a white gauze around the midnight moon; sport—ing in the cascades, sleeping in the glacier, dancing in the hail-shower, folding its soft curtain gently around the windy world, and weaving the many-colored iris—whose warp is in the rain-drops of the earth, whose woof is in the sunbeams of heaven—into clouds of work of celestial weavers by the mystic hand of reflection; still always it is beautiful, that blessed life water! No poison bubbles in its brink; its foam bath no sadness or murder!

The Nineteenth Century Woman.

Scraper's Magazine.]

There is an old belief of the masculine Anglo-Saxon mind that a woman, to be lovable, should have no "marked individuality." But with this world's rapid advance through the Victorian age, woman has become more than ever perplexing to the male atom who poses himself for a moment to make a study of her.

She no longer needs man's apparel to practice a profession, or journey forth on foot under the green leaves of Arden. She has grown self-reliant and cosmopolitan—equally at home in the White House or on the banks of the Neva. She never gathers daisies and buttercups nowadays, to test her lover's affection by pulling their petals apart. You find her, instead, arranging ornaments in a glass, and making cynical reflections on the worthlessness of the whole race. Individual love or hate in the opposite sex is all one to her.

"They Jest Lough."

San Francisco Alta.]

During the Civil War a man great in his own eyes was by some influence appointed brigadier general. His sense of his own importance was greatly increased. He could hardly speak of anything except his new dignity. Meeting a "homespun" Yankee one day, he accosted him thus: "Well, Jim, I suppose you know that I have been appointed brigadier general?" "Yes," said Jim, "I heard so." "Well, what do folks say about it?" "They don't say nothin'," replied tranquil Jim; "they jest lough."

Ethel—Well, now, I really consider Jack a great man.

Maud—You judge by his sighs, dear.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE OBSERVER.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., OCT. 8, 1891.

Z. W. WHITEHEAD, SOLE OWNER.

Established in 1825 by E. J. Hale, Sr.

Z. W. WHITEHEAD, Editors.
J. H. MYROVER.

"The Observer" is the second oldest paper in the State; it is read by nine-tenths of the reading people of Cumberland and counties of Robeson, Richmond, Moore, Harnett, Bladen, Columbus, New Hanover, Pender, Duplin, Sampson, Johnston, Anson, Chatham, Montgomery and Stanly, and Marion and Marlboro counties, S. C.

"STILL HARPING ON MY DAUGHTER."

We feel that we shall be simply acquitting ourselves of a very plain duty, as factors in the material advancement of this section, in every line we pen and every argument we adduce to increase, or, we fear we must rather say, to inspire general interest in the construction of the Fayetteville & Albemarle R. R.—for it is a matter of conspicuous importance.

A railway line pushed into that almost untouched territory embracing parts of Cumberland and Moore, and the counties of Montgomery and Stanly—with Randolph, Richmond and Cabarrus directly tributary—would be as the first resper in a rich field of golden grain, hastening into development resources of which the variety and extent would astonish those who have not given special attention to the capabilities of that fine country.

So far as the precious metals are concerned, it is no dream of the visionary that the future is to make this vast area, lying now outside the great highways of traffic and travel, the "El Dorado" of the South, underlain as it is by extensive gold-bearing strata, which are even now mined at fine profit—and more thorough development will doubtless discover the existence of the useful and commercial minerals.

But the practical inquirer finds "metal more attractive" in the contemplation of the forestry and agricultural riches of that tier of counties. The wealth in timber—notable no less for the variety of woods than quantity—is almost exhaustless, while no better cotton and cereal-producing soil is to be found in North Carolina. Only an open way to the world's markets is now needed to transform this fair land into a succession of profitable farms, with busy mills dotting the streams, and awakening life in the forests imprisoned in silence for centuries.

Best of all, "Barkis is willin'," and the course of the first locomotive to whirl its angry smoke at those abodes of peace and tranquility would be an ovation. Those people are anxious to clasp hands with us again, for they were among our fathers' best friends and customers, bringing them a lucrative trade, carrying on with them a great business all the year around, and contributing, second to no section, in making Fayetteville the great commercial entrepot of the State. Gladly will they return to their "first love"; and the sons of the honest, primitive citizens who forty and fifty years ago waggoned over the red hills of Stanly and Montgomery will be welcome visitors on our streets, buying our goods, and bringing to us their varied and valuable products.

The construction of the Fayetteville & Albemarle R. R. to Albemarle—nearly due west, with but a slight northward deflection—would be ultimately followed by its farther extension, with an outlet into the great State of Tennessee. But whether this be accomplished or not; admitting that the road starts at Fayetteville and ends at Albemarle—its benefits to this place will be great and enduring. A very good railroad man, who passed away many years ago, used to say that, for a terminus, the profitable railway line was the one that tapped the back country, and stopped at the foot of a tree—that the terminus don't want any connection. At the head of Cape Fear river navigation, with a great water-way to one of the chief ports on the Atlantic coast, Fayetteville would draw from this splendid country as the stream takes volume from the full reservoir, increasing its trade, extending its business, and sharing in the prosperity following the utilization of great but hitherto untouched resources.

For the advantages which would accrue to the people of 71st township from the building of this road, we have only to bid them turn their eyes upon their western neighbors, and note the superior progress made by the eastern half of Moore county over the western half since the former has been enjoying the benefits derived from the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley and Raleigh & Augusta Air-Line Railroads and, later, from the little line which bisects it between Carthage and Cameron.

THE PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

As the time for the annual exhibition comes nearer and nearer everything points to a "red-letter" page in the history of the Cumberland fairs, already bright with the continued triumphs of more than a quarter of a century—nor is this a mere advertising boast; but, as good old Squire Fairley, of Richmond, was wont to say, "it's the Lord's truth." The correspondence of the secretary, and the requests from different quarters for copies of the premium list, show that the interest in the forthcoming exhibition is general; and that the area of patronage will probably be more extensive this year than ever before.

Then, too, the past season has been one of incentive to the ambitious exhibitor; the crops—especially the cereal, leguminous and root crops—have been bounteous, and numerous have been the prizes gathered with the full harvests, to be preserved for entrance at the fair; fruits, except peaches, have had a fair yield, while the vegetable gardens have been wonderfully prolific—so that we may reasonably expect Farmers' Hail to surpass itself.

It is gratifying to know that very cordial relations exist between Cumberland and Robeson and the Pee Dee section. The warm interest taken by the citizens of our town and county in the Red Springs Fair, and their large attendance and active cooperation for the past two years, are fully appreciated, and we may look for reciprocity in a full representation of the whole country below here at our exposition next month.

The fair grounds and buildings have been put in excellent order, additional stabling, stalls, pens, etc., have been provided, and the enlargement, lengthening and improvement of the race-track make it now, in the opinion of experts, the best in the State. We are glad to be able to promise that stock worthy of this model track will be here for trials of speed, and the racing will be exceptionally fine.

We earnestly appeal to all our people to give the fair their hearty support, especially as exhibitors; and we confidently rely upon the good, true women of Fayetteville and Cumberland to contribute to its success as they have done in the past.

An Interesting Anniversary.

For the Observer.]

One of the oldest institutions of its kind in the world, the Richmond Temperance and Literary Society, celebrated its 30th anniversary on the 26th of September at Spring Hill, N. C. The address was delivered by Rev. J. W. Johnston, a Nova Scotian by birth, but a thorough American by adoption.

He is all-over a temperance man; there is no half-way ground about the whiskey question with him. He believes it is, from first to last, always and only, everywhere and everywhere, for, by, and of, the Devil. He would suppress it in every possible way. He believes in Temperance Societies or moral suasion, legal suasion, every other kind of "suasion"; and, besides that, he would sweep it from the earth with one blow if he could. He has no great faith in whiskey even as a medicine, and I do not believe he would touch a drop of it if a snake should bite him. He is right.

It is very refreshing to hear a man who is so clear and strong in his position. If temperance people would be pronounced and uncompromising in their attitude towards the whiskey curse it would have to go. Some good church people say "oh, the church is good enough for me," when the truth is, the church is not a temperance society at all. After a man reforms he joins the church—not before.

Mr. Johnston spoke for more than an hour, and it was quite as fine a speech on the subject as I have ever heard.

After the speech the dinner always comes and goes; and in the afternoon a pleasant revival meeting of temperance was held, at which many new names were enrolled. This society was founded by the young people of the community in 1855, when it was a custom everywhere to indulge in whiskey, wine and cider. They had to fly in the face of a long-established usage, and met the sharpest criticism from those who should have been their friends. They struggled on in spite of jeer and joke until they reversed public sentiment, and made it a popular thing to belong to a temperance society. Their children have grown up under its benign influence, and many of the youngest men of this section can truthfully say that they do not know the taste of liquor.

They built a beautiful brick hall which is an ornament to the neighborhood, and which is still used solely as a temperance hall. They have their reward. They see the dawning light of a new day. County after county is passing out from under the curse, and last year our own county commissioners outlawed the whole business, and drove it into caves and branches where it must ply its infamous trade unprotected by law.

And now with Marlboro, S. C., dry on the west of Richmond, and Robeson dry below, we would be almost free from its blight but for the steady stream that comes over the "Yadkin Valley" from Fayetteville.

Where are your county commissioners, Messrs. Editors? Are they Christians? Are they patriots, even?

Love's Young Dream.

Love's young dream was a very bright one, and its fulfillment will be bright, too, if the bride will remember that she is a woman, and liable to all the ailments of her sex. We remind those who are suffering from any of these that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will renew the line of youth in pale and hollow cheeks, correct irritating uterine diseases, arrest and cure ulceration and inflammation, and infuse new vitality into a wasting body. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturer that it will give satisfaction in every case or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

You should heed the warning; you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. The Blue Ridge Smokes.

Watch Knob, in Buncombe county, not far from Cooper's, is still sending forth its columns of smoke. Not only Watch Knob but more than half a dozen other small peaks in that vicinity vie with each other in the amount of smoke and the regularity of the phenomenon. The people of that vicinity are taking interest in these smoking peaks. Last year there were only two or three peaks from which the smoke could be seen. But this year all is changed. The knobs began smoking a couple of more weeks ago. Mr. Gregg says he first discovered the phenomenon on Watch Knob. It was shortly after the earthquake at Charleston, S. C., in 1886. Since that time the smoking has begun in the fall each year, continuing a month or more, and can be witnessed almost any clear day, and even on cloudy days, when the fog is not too near the earth. The smoking begins at about 1 o'clock in the morning, and ends at 3 in the afternoon. At times, Mr. Gregg says, as many as eight columns can be seen arising from one peak. These are often 300 feet high, the size of a tree-trunk, and black. Mr. Gregg says he has walked over the knobs, and never a sign of any smoke arising could be seen. But there it would be above his head, standing in a rigid column. Over one hundred people saw this smoke last week, and all who see believe.

Cotton Worm.

While the cotton worm is not ravaging every cotton field in Edgecombe county there is not a neighborhood without them. Where they appear the leaves are devoured entirely. One farmer says that in forty acres he doesn't believe he can find a whole leaf.

Many contend that these pests are doing no harm; or that the good in devouring the leaves and thus letting in sunlight, equals or overbalances the injury. Had they come later this might have been the case where the growth of the plant was very rank, but observant men tell me that these worms do not confine their mastications to the leaf but devour the young buds and the leaves around the half-grown ones. These young buds probably would never amount to anything, but not so with the half-grown ones, which would make some cotton, either good or stained as the season is late or early.

Cotton Futures.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Sun's cotton circular says:
Futures opened buoyantly, presently declined, and closed easy at about last night's prices. The U. S. Signal Service gave this morning confirmation news of killing frost Wednesday night as far south as Shreveport, Aberdeen and Selma, and our market had a buoyant opening in face of a lower Liverpool market, but prices did not get so high as on Wednesday, and weakness soon overtook the whole market. It was declared by the bears that the recent dry weather would greatly mitigate the damage by frost, and the movement of the crop estimates. The accumulation of stocks to about 850,000 bales at ports and interior towns makes the bulls timid. Weather at the South was generally reported bright—just what is needed to secure the crops in a first-class condition. Spot cotton was dull and nominal.

October Weather.

The U. S. Hydrographic office makes the following forecast for this month, viz.: Generally moderate weather will prevail, but gales may be experienced along the coast three or four times during the month. Altogether, October is the last month of the West Indian hurricane season; several of the most severe hurricanes on record have occurred about this time, and no precaution should be neglected. It will be well to remember that October hurricanes recur in lower latitudes, generally speaking, than during July and August. There will be less fog than during September, and no ice will be encountered south of the latitude of Cape Race.

Skeleton of a Missing Man Found.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 10.—Last June a man named Alexander Fulton disappeared from the south-western portion of Morgan county, being last seen with a man named R. S. Castleberry. Search for him was made in vain, and it was supposed he had left this country. Yesterday a party of men came upon the remains of a man in a cedar glade near Mount Nebo church, lying on top of the ground. By a pocket-book and papers they were identified as the remains of Fulton. A bullet hole was found in his skull. Castleberry has left the country. The horrible crime is being investigated by the coroner.

Fatal Accident at Dover

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Oct. 7.—H. Warrick (col.), living near here, but working with a lumber company at Dover, about forty miles east of Goldsboro, was killed at that place to-day by a train on the road used for hauling timber. He was sitting on a load of cross-ties at the rear of the train, when the ties slipped, pressing on him under the train, which passed over him. He was brought here for burial.

McDOWGALD'S ARRAIGNMENT.

Preliminaries in the Most Memorable Murder Trial in the State for Thirty Years—The Prisoner's Appearance.

Wilmington Messenger.]
Lumberton was agog last Tuesday morning when it was announced that D. A. McDougald, when court convened, would be arraigned for the murder of his uncle, Simon Connelly, on the 21st of April last.

At 10 o'clock Hon. J. D. McIver took his seat on the bench, and the crier from the window made the usual proclamation, "Oyez, oyez, coe into court!" and in a few minutes Sheriff Pittner and his deputy pushed their way through a court-room crowded to every available inch, carrying with them in irons to the prisoner's box D. A. McDougald—that man who, six months ago, had a reputation and character without spot or blemish, and who to-day stands indicted for committing one of the most fiendish murders ever known in the annals of the State. The minutes of the court were read, and now and then some friends quietly shook his hand and retired. The prisoner's father, old and gray-haired, with his two sons, stood by the oldest brother.

The prisoner was faultlessly dressed in a suit of black. He wore a handsome white shirt, four-in-hand tie around a high standing collar as white as driven snow, and his full set of whiskers were combed in the most approved style. His full beard, which grew out during his clandestine flight to Oregon, changes his appearance. The sheriff's stern voice called out "silence!" and the judge requested the solicitor to proceed. Thereupon Mr. Walter H. Neal, of Lumberton, and Mr. N. A. McLean, of Lumberton, went over and occupied seats with counsel for the State, and Major John D. Shaw, Col. W. Foster French and Capt. W. S. Norment, for the defense, sat near the prisoner. It was a terrible moment, and the multitude in the court-room breathed as one man. The prisoner was as calm as the court, not a muscle of his face or body showed the slightest emotion, and he answered clearly, audibly and without tremor that he would be tried "By God and my country."

Thereupon a motion was made to change the place of trial, and the case was moved to Cumberland county, and will be tried at Fayetteville on November 12th. This will be the most notable trial in the history of the State for the past thirty years. There are about 150 witnesses, all the evidence being circumstantial, and it will take ten days to try it. The defense stood as high in point of character as any man in the State, and the case will be watched with great interest. Both sides are represented by superb lawyers. Mr. N. A. McLean has been employed by the citizens of Robeson county, and Mr. Walter H. Neal, who is fearless and aggressive as a lawyer, by the New York Mutual Life Insurance Company, in which the life of the murdered uncle was insured. Both sides have the ablest lawyers in this section of North Carolina, and the contest will be a memorable one.

A Desperate Crime.

Wilkesboro Chronicle.]
In Wilkes county Sherman Greer shot and mortally wounded his aged father. The crime attracted much attention. Greer, who is about 20 years old, went home drunk, and made such a disturbance that his father ordered him out of the house. He went and came back, renewing his cursing. His father again ordered him out. He swore he would not go, and as his father approached him for the purpose of taking hold of him, he shot him in the left breast. Francis Watson, who was present, caught hold of the old man, and the boy shot him again, the ball ranging through the pit of the stomach and lodging against the back-bone. Sherman then left, accompanied by Watson, and passing by where his crippled brothers were at work, told them he had shot the "preacher," a name he applied to his father, and that he was going to get cartridges, come back and kill them. He went to the store, got cartridges and he and Watson went into John Church's house, the family being from home, and spent the night. Next morning constable Beshears and a posse attempted to arrest him, several shots being fired. Fayette Walse, of the posse, received a severe shot in the thigh. Sherman escaped, accompanied by Watson. T. A. Church gathered up a posse and followed them. At Southernland's they overtook them, but they again escaped in the laurel thickets. Church's men firing forty shots at them. Greer and Watson went from there to Tennessee, but returned to Watauga, the Tennessee authorities pressing them too closely. When they returned to Watauga Will Lovell, of Boone, and others got after them, and captured Greer in the edge of Ashe county.

And the Earth Trembled.

NAPA, Cal., October 12.—The heaviest earthquake shock ever felt here was experienced at 10:14 last night. People rushed into the streets in their night-clothes in great excitement; chimneys toppled over; several buildings were shattered and badly shaken up. Drug store fixtures suffered greatly, bottles being thrown from the shelves to the floor, and other damage done. The Masonic Temple, a fine building, was shattered. At the State Insane Asylum great excitement prevailed, the patients being almost uncontrollable. It is reported that the building is cracked, besides other damage being done.

The Baby's Name is Ruth.

NEW YORK, October 9.—Ex-President Cleveland said to-day, in answer to an inquiry in regard to the name of the new-comer in his house: "We have settled on a name, and it is Ruth."

Millions of Destitute Russians.

St. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—Senator Barnoff estimates that no fewer than 32,000,000 peasants in Russia, now destitute, will be provided for, for the next ten months. It will require three hundred and twenty million pounds of grain to feed them. Prince Karsakoff, the head of the great family, lives on koosewort bread as an example for his servants, and asks others to follow during the national affliction.

Total Visible Supply of Cotton.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The total visible supply of cotton for the world is 2,268,878 bales, of which 1,898,278 are American, against 1,665,947 and 1,181,537 respectively last year. Receipts at all interior towns are 22,856 bales; receipts on plantations 348,251 bales; crop in sight 1,393,763 bales.

The Very Satisfactory.

Of the total freights carried into Wilmington on Friday last, 9th inst., by all the river and railroad lines connecting with that city, the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway transported 20 per cent. of the total, 28 per cent. of the spirits, turpentine, and 30 per cent. of the rosin.

The Orphans.

The Misses Johnson, of the Boston Conservatory of Music, assisted by Mrs. C. P. Johnson, Elcutionist, will give an entertainment to-morrow (Friday) evening in Williams Hall—the proceeds to be devoted to the Old Fellows' Orphanage at Goldsboro. The object is a most laudable one, and we hope a good house will swell the receipts of this deserving Goldsboro charity.

Fayetteville Real Estate Agency.

The annual meeting of the Fayetteville Real Estate Agency was held in the town hall Tuesday night, with a goodly number present. Reports of the officers were made, which showed the institution to be a healthy and highly satisfactory organization, with good dividends for the stockholders.

Without a dissenting voice the following officers were reelected for the ensuing year: Chas. Haigh, President; R. M. Snodgrass, Vice-President; Dr. J. W. McNeill, Treasurer; C. L. Taylor, Secretary; J. A. McKethan, Jr., W. S. Rankin, J. P. Thomson, S. C. Rankin, E. L. Pemberton.

The Mercantile Man.

Mr. Ingold, the head-driver of Mr. B. B. Burt's livery stables, who drove a party out to "Tokay" on Sunday, 4th inst., called at the OBSERVER office to ask assistance in the purchase of a pair of driving-gloves, left in our hands for the purpose by one of that party, who noted and highly appreciated the kindness and consideration of Mr. Ingold for the stock driver's care.

The barbarism and savagery of cruelty to animals is every day receiving more and more the attention of thoughtful men, and the consideration of a Christian and humane spirit on the part of those to whom circumstances have intrusted any order of brute creation will fail of encouraging them from the philanthropic and the benevolent.

Special Meeting of the County Commissioners.

At a special meeting of the county commissioners, held here last Monday, Geo. A. Graham, of Rockfish township, tendered a special bond of $500, which was accepted and ordered recorded.

It was then ordered that repairs on the bridge over Rock's Creek be referred to the supervisors of Fletch township, with power and authority to let same to the lowest bidder.

A. A. McKethan, Dr. J. W. McNeill and other associates were granted right of way to construct a street railway on Hay street and such other public thoroughfares from Fayetteville westward as they may deem practicable, provided that said lands and streets are left in as good condition after the street railway shall have been constructed as before.

Station-Hummock.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Sampson county, on Wednesday morning, 7th inst., Rev. Daniel Reid officiating, W. J. Watson was united in marriage to Miss Lizzie R. Hunnicutt, the charming niece of Mr. A. R. Carver, formerly of Fayetteville, with the following attendants: Mr. D. W. Culbreth and Miss Bettie Herring; Mr. A. D. Cooper and Miss Maggie Smith; Mr. C. L. Hobbs and Miss Lennie Herring; Mr. H. H. Edwards and Miss Maggie Herring; Mr. G. B. Hunnicutt and Miss Fletch Strickland; Mr. R. A. Herring and Miss Fannie Watson; Mr. J. C. Watson and Miss Beulah Hunnicutt.

After the ceremony the wedding party, with a large party of friends, enjoyed a delightful repast at the hospitable residence of Mr. Watson.

Amusements for the Fair.

The lessees of the Opera House have taken such steps as will bring them out with a flourish in their part of sustaining the Cumberland Fair by catering to the tastes of the pleasure-loving public. They will give us during that week the Boston Quintette Club and one of Gardner's excellent stock companies; and, without a single dubious flutter, we can recommend them highly.

The present Opera House management has been on one or two occasions deceived by so-called "attractions" put upon the boards here—something against which it was impossible to guard; but, altogether, its regime has been marked by no "lenten entertainment" for our money, and the company has been indebted to it for much that was very fine in music and the drama.

Fayetteville Presbytery.

Fayetteville Presbytery convened at Dunn on Wednesday, 7th inst., with 16 ministers and 34 elders present, the opening sermon being delivered by Rev. P. R. Law. Rev. W. P. Thom was elected moderator, and Rev. M. McG. Shields and Elder Geo. P. McNeill were made temporary clerks.

The pastoral relation between Rev. Chalmers Moore and Laurinburg Church was dissolved, and Rev. J. S. Black was appointed to preach to the church, declaring it vacant.

Rev. J. H. Pegram, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was invited to a seat in the body, and was formally introduced by the Moderator. Rev. Chalmers Moore was dismissed at his own request to connect himself with Mecklenburg Presbytery.

A resolution was adopted, urging the churches to use all legitimate means to institute the pastoral relation, instead of encouraging the stated supply system. The consideration of the Directory of Worship, sent down by the General Assembly, was postponed until the spring meeting.

The reports of the chairmen of the Home Missions and Evangelistic committees, Rev. Dr. H. G. Hill and Rev. P. R. Law, revealed decided progress in their departments, and bright prospects of further success in the coming months. The address of the Presbyterial Evangelist, Rev. A. R. Shaw, about his work was listened to with manifest pleasure and satisfaction.

The report of the Committee on Education was read by the chairman, Rev. A. N. Ferguson, and showed 13 on the roll of candidates for the ministry. To this number Mr. S. A. Wicker, of Bethesda Church, was added during the session of the body, making 14 candidates in all. The narration on the State of Religion revealed improved harmony, growth and increased consecration to the Master's service in all the churches.

For the coming official term Rev. J. M. Clark was made Agent of Visitation, and Rev. D. N. McLaughlin of Publication, Colportage and the North Carolina Presbyterial; Rev. Dr. Hill was continued the chairman of the Home Missions committee, Rev. A. N. Ferguson of the Educational committee, and Rev. P. R. Law of the Evangelistic committee; Rev. Joseph Evans was made Agent of Foreign Missions, and Rev. M. McG. Shields chairman of the Executive Committee of Synodical Evangelization; Mr. J. A. McAllister was reelected Treasurer, and Rev. P. R. Law was elected a Trustee of Davidson College.

Rev. D. D. McBryde, by special order, preached an able sermon on the Diaconate. A Foreign Missions meeting was conducted on Friday night under the leadership of Rev. P. R. Law. Addresses were made by Rev. Dr. Hill and Rev. D. N. McLaughlin, and a collection was taken up for the cause.

Pittsboro was chosen as the place for the next meeting of Presbytery. The work of the body was concluded at 11 A. M. on Saturday, and it adjourned to meet in Durham during the meeting of Synod, at the call of the Moderator.

It was an unusually pleasant meeting, and the hospitality of the people of Dunn was marked by delightful cordiality.

See next week's Observer for list of Marshals, programme, etc., of the approaching Cumberland Fair, with schedules of special trains.

Mark Twain's Tom.

"Tom Sawyer" has become as celebrated as Dickens' immortal "Bob Sawyer," who gave the feast in East street to Mr. Pickwick and his friends, when the Bachelors of the night were routed by the night-capped head of fierce little Mrs. Raddle thrust over the stair-landing.

The Will E. Burton Company give the popular comedy, "Tom Sawyer," at the Opera House on Saturday evening; but, as we have never witnessed its performance, we can venture on no recommendation of it from our own knowledge. It is highly spoken of, though, and the New Orleans Picayune, one of the leading papers of the country, says of it:

The house that gathered to witness the Mark Twain story dramatized last night was immense. From the opening the audience was captured, and great applause greeted the company's efforts. Burton is a typical "Tom," doing his part in an excellent manner. He gave song after song, enthusiastically applauded, and became a great favorite with the audience from the very first.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week we have the Elfin Star Company—popular prices; on Thursday, "Last Days of Pompeii"—50 and 75 cents.

Improvements, Changes, etc.

Capt. Jas. D. McNeill and family are now comfortably and happily installed in their very handsome new dwelling on Old street. It is very convenient to Capt. McNeill's business, the churches, etc., and forms part of a very pleasant neighborhood.

Mr. E. H. Jennings is having repaired and attractively remodeled, and made ready for occupancy, his recent purchase, the commodious house on Person street, lately tenanted by Capt. J. D. McNeill.

Mr. Clarence D. Sedberry has bought the smaller McIntyre house on Person street, and will put it in excellent shape and condition for a future home.

Col. Chas. Haigh and family are occupying the dwelling-house known as the "Ray summer-house," on Haymont, during the work of extensive and tasteful alterations on his residence on Dick street.

Mr. E. L. Pemberton and family will take as a residence the beautiful house owned by Mr. John P. Thomson, on Dick Street.

Mr. Phil Wright is having fitted up the store building on Green street recently occupied by Mr. W. R. Wicker—the well-known "Banks stand"—and will in a few days have in operation a cafe, where oysters, hot coffee, lunch, etc., will invite public patronage. Mr. Wright's enviable reputation as a hotel man—and especially his really artistic skill in the supervision of the cuisine of every house of which he has been manager—give warrant that excellent service and style will characterize his new restaurant.

The "Metropolitan Racket Store" is metropolitan "fer fer fact." Its ever-widening business has broken down a partition wall, and it now occupies two store-buildings in the Thornton Iron-front Block—city-like an establishment as a customer could step into.

The Hair- and Tooth-brushes, Combs, Soaps, Perfumes and Flavouring Extracts at HORNE'S DRUG STORE will be appreciated if tried.

"Railroad Crossing"—Train Coming.

The grading on the southern extension of the Atlantic Coast Line R. R. from Fayetteville is now about finished. The work was much retarded during the summer by the incessant rains; for, while that flat country offers a splendid field for engineering and construction in fine weather, it holds water when the floods come, and necessitates a suspension of operations.

We may expect through trains north and south over this road by the opening of 1892, at farthest, for this great corporation doesn't "poke"—and then, Upper Hay Street, you may wake up. The completion of this southern extension cannot fail to insure to the benefit of that part of the city, both in the enhancement of real estate and, to some appreciable extent, in the increase of business. In all probability, if the thorough schedule should make this an "eating-point" (if we may be forgiven for expressing ourselves in such atrocious style), the establishment of a restaurant will be a project in the near future; and if, as is the custom of that company, it should be under the management of the Atlantic Coast Line, it will be a great accession to that quarter of the town. Then, too, more than ever will the street railway be a necessity.

It should be noted here that Fayetteville is midway between the north and the extreme south, both climatically and geographically—a healthy, happy mean.

If you want a nice, comfortable Truss, at a reasonable price, call at HORNE'S DRUG STORE.

The New York Life Insurance Company being so well known and so exceedingly popular, Mr. H. I. McDuffie, the Agent, rarely ever finds it necessary to refer to its record through the press, but when he does use the columns of a newspaper he always inserts facts worthy of the attention of the public; and one of the most interesting advertisements he ever gave to the press is the one found in another column of this paper, under the heading "in the Front Rank—Why the New York Life Dumb-founds its Enemies."

Religious Notes.

Rev. W. J. Falford occupied Rev. W. B. Oliver's pulpit last Sunday, and gave the congregation an excellent sermon. Special prayer service will be held by the church in the lecture-room this evening, and by the Sunday-school to-morrow evening.

Rev. A. R. Shaw, Presbyterial Evangelist, preached acceptably to the Presbyterians last Sunday.

The meetings at Hay Street Methodist Church have been continued into this week. Rev. Dr. Hill gave a strong sermon on Monday night; Rev. E. C. Sell has been faithfully assisting Dr. Moore.

Cumberland Gathers Texas Honors.

With doubtful and uncertain step they toddle in infancy about the homestead threshold, and under the great oak sheltering the horse-trough at the barn-door, —going farther afield, as youth thrills vein and pulse with exuberant life, where the stream invades the forest with its music murmuring, where the bare starts from the covert, and the woodcock beats aside the thick sedge with the sudden whirr of strong wings; and then, as budding manhood deepens the heart and expands the soul, they dream—when the day's work is done, with the plough left in the furrow—looking toward the crimsoned west, and in the molten golden glories of the dying day their thoughtful ambition finds as did the distraught brain of poor Barnaby Rudge, as he stood in the cottage garden by the side of the blind man Stagg.

The dearly loved are left behind with bruised hearts and streaming eyes, and the old homestead becomes a thing of the past. They tread the streets of great cities, fighting the world for name and fame, and attack the trackless wilds of the far West to capture fortune from their untired depths. Alas! some are seen no hard of again by kindred or friend, passing away with the "ships that went down in deep waters, and never were sighted more," others achieve honor and position in strange lands, build happy homes, and form new and fond ties—but with the lapse of years "time, burrowing 'moult' all things mortal," throws up another mound or two, and the bowed father and gray-haired mother sleep in the country graveyard, knowing naught of the earthly triumphs of the first-born.

The Mexia (Tex.) Ledger of a recent date has an article congratulatory of the prosperous eight years' business career of the First National Bank of that place; and it gives us pleasure to copy its notice of a Cumberland-born and -raised man, now for many years a citizen of the great Gulf State:

Mr. W. L. Murphy, one of the stockholders and also a director of the bank, was chosen cashier when the bank was organized, and has held that position ever since. He is the general manager of the bank, and to his skillful conduct of its affairs must be attributed in a great degree the almost phenomenal success of this healthy and growing institution.

Echoes from Arkansas Social Life.

The "dispersed abroad" are not the entirely forgotten—though memory turns sullen and treacherous when elbowed and hustled by the world's carking cares—and it always delights us to hear of the happiness and success of those who have gone from our midst for other fields of usefulness and labor. Mr. John S. Gibson has made for himself a pleasant, refined home in Arkansas, and there the other evening he entertained his friends in goodly number around his "mahogany," as we learn by the following from the last issue of the Arkansas Gazette:

The social event of the season was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gibson, of Hoxie, in honor of their guest and cousin, Miss Maud Bos, of New Iberia, La. The handsome host and charming hostess spared no pains, either in preparation or execution, to assure the comfort and entertainment of their guests, while the accomplished belle of New Iberia greatly added to their pleasure. During the evening instrumental solos were rendered by Mrs. Gibson and Miss Van Camp, both of whom are popular for their talents and accomplishments, and Mrs. Free favored the party with a choice recitation, which elicited much applause. But Mr. and Mrs. Gibson did not strive only to make merry the hearts of their guests—the wants of the inner man were not forgotten; at an opportune time refreshments were announced, and the company repaired to the beautifully-decorated dining-hall.

The new enterprise perfected its permanent organization on the evening of the 12th inst., and is constituted as follows: President, Jas. C. Gittings, Baltimore; Vice-President, H. W. Lilly, Fayetteville; General Manager, S. M. Miller; Secretary and Treasurer, Jno. P. Thomson; Directors: Jas. C. Gittings, H. W. Lilly, Jno. P. Thomson, S. M. Miller, H. A. Borell, Philadelphia; W. Newton Smith, Baltimore; Dr. J. W. McNeill, Jno. B. Broadfoot, E. L. Pemberton.

The objects of the company are most laudable, appealing to the hearty cooperation and endorsement of all classes of the community. The design is to construct a street railway, and to improve the old arsenal property, upon which to erect a handsome and thoroughly-equipped hotel, for the accommodation of winter tourists, with capacity to entertain 200 guests.

People and their Movements.

Mrs. Jno. B. Broadfoot left on Tuesday to visit her parents at New Berne.

Mrs. N. A. Sinclair has been spending a few days with friends in Robeson county.

Col T. H. Sutton spent a few days here this week, and returned to Winston on yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cecil, of Thomasville, paid a brief visit to friends and relatives in this county last week.

Mr. W. E. Williams, of the "Metropolitan Racket Store," left yesterday for New York, to add to his already large stock.

Rev. P. R. Law made us a pleasant visit Tuesday on his return from Dunn, where he had been attending Fayetteville Presbytery, an account of which appears in another column.

Hon. Chas. M. Stedman, of Asheville, one of the most brilliant men in the State, who passed the earlier years of his life in Fayetteville, spent a few minutes here last Friday, on his way to Wilmington.

Mr. A. R. Carver, formerly a well-known business man of Fayetteville, paid his old home a visit this week; he spent the summer at Saluda and Warm Springs, and is now harvesting his crops at his place in Sampson county.

Dr. John Shaw, a physician of high standing and long practice, and one of the leading citizens of Moore county—who stopped over here a few hours on his return home from Fayetteville—prey to which he was a lay delegate—gave us a pleasant call of half an hour last Monday; we were very glad to see him.

DIED.

PLUMMER—In Gray's Creek township, Cumberland County, N. C., on the 8th of October, 1891, JAMES PLUMMER, aged 86 years and 2 days.

FALKNER—In Warrenton, N. C., on Monday the 21st ult., Mrs. ANN FALKNER, of paralysis, in the 76th year of her age. Mrs. Falkner was a daughter of Kemp Plummer, Esq., who was a lawyer of ability and high character on the Warren circuit during the first quarter of this century, and the sister of Mrs. Lucy M. Battle, the wife of the Judge Battle, and of William Plummer, Esq., the father of Mrs. J. B. Batchelor, of Raleigh. Dr. Alfred Plummer, her only surviving brother, is still living at an advanced age near Middleburg, Vance county, greatly respected by a large circle of acquaintances. The last of thirteen children, he followed on Thursday last the sister he fondly loved to her grave in the private burial-ground, in the rear of the old Plummer mansion. Her husband, W. A. C. Falkner, died when she was quite young, leaving her the mother of three small children, two sons and a daughter, who will be a great grief to the large congregation at her funeral in Emmanuel Episcopal Church in the afternoon of a hot and dusty day, and of the long procession which followed her body to the resting place, and more by the fact that the Revs. Messrs. B. S. Bronson and Wm. S. Pettigrew, who conducted the services, thought proper to depart from the custom at funerals in the Episcopal Church, and to deliver feeling addresses in eulogy of her long and blameless life, spent in her Master's service, and presenting it as a pattern for all who would be Christians to follow. What an honor it to have been such an exemplar of all the best virtues of womanhood, and what a loss to society when such an one is removed.

(Mrs. Falkner was the grandmother of the wife of an esteemed citizen of this county, Mr. W. K. Parker, now General Manager, Secretary and Treasurer of Cumberland Mills Manufacturing Company—Ens. Obs.)

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 5, 1891.

To the Officers and Members of Cumberland Lodge, No. 5, Knights of Pythias—Dear Sirs and Brethren:

Your Committee appointed to prepare and present to your Lodge resolutions on the death of Brother L. C. STRICKLAND, Past Chancellor of Cumberland Lodge, and Past Grand O. G. of our Grand Lodge, who died in this city on the 29th day of September, 1891, aged 64 years, beg leave to submit the following: WHEREAS: The Pythian career and record of our departed brother is coincident with the birth and life of Cumberland Lodge, No. 5, and of the Grand Lodge of which it is a part, when that honorable body was instituted December 2nd, 1871, which at the same time conferred on him the honor of electing him one of its officers; therefore it is

Resolved, That we fully recognize and appreciate the fact that Cumberland Lodge and our order are under deep and everlasting obligations to our departed brother for his pre-eminent zeal and tireless fidelity to the duties and good of the order, evidence of which he has left behind in the keeping of our hearts and records of our order—a monument more durable than marble.

Resolved, That we with full accord and fraternal sympathy desire to offer this tribute of honor and eulogy in memory of our departed brother, revered for his amiable demeanor and Christian walk in life, who has entered in "good stand" the fraternal portals of bliss, where higher "ranks" will be assigned to him, which can never be known to us on earth.

Resolved, That our Castle Hall be draped in suitable mourning in memory of our departed brother, and a copy of these resolutions and preamble be furnished the family of deceased; also a copy of the same be furnished our city papers for publication.

Respectfully and fraternally submitted.

A Dead Shot.

right at the seat of difficulty is accomplished by the sure and steady aim of Dr. S. G. Catlett Remedy. Don't fool around with a pop-gun, nor a "Pint-lick," when the reliable "Winchester" is within reach! Dr. Sage's treatment of catarrh is far superior to the ordinary, and when directions are reasonably well followed, results in a permanent cure. Don't longer be indifferent to the verified claims of this unfailing remedy. $500 is offered, in good faith, for an inflexible cure of Catarrh in its various forms, by its inventor, the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Lecture on Fools. Admit One.

A gentleman who lectured on fools, printed his tickets as above. Suggestive, certainly, and even amusing. What fools are they who suffer the inroads of disease when they might be cured. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is sold under a patent of its beneficent use, and its use is most positive in its curative effects. Pimples, Itches, Eruptions and all Skin and Scalp diseases are radically cured by this wonderful medicine. Scrofulous disease may affect the glands, causing swellings or tumors; the bones, causing "Pever sores," "White Swellings," "Hip joint Disease," or "Osteomyelitis," causing Pulmonary Consumption. Whatever its manifestations may be, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures it.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Treseott are keepers of the Government Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain; she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and after the use of two and a half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at B. E. Sedberry & Son's Drug Store.

Electrolysis.

Washington, D. C.

OFFICE OF YORK ENTERPRISE,
YORKVILLE, S. C., Aug. 14, '91.

ATLANTIC ELECTROLYSIS—Gentlemen: For the past five years my wife has suffered from dyspepsia. So completely did the disease make a home of her former self that life was almost destroyed. Her nervous system was almost entirely broken down, and the slightest noise would throw her into a nervous spasm, which would last for hours. Medical skill failed to give her any relief.

Through the recommendation of an eminent divine we were induced to try the Electrolysis. After a persistent use of the instrument, the effect has been wonderful. Her nervous system has been restored to its normal condition; her digestion is wonderfully improved; she is rapidly gaining in flesh; and, upon the whole, is making a rapid recovery, which speaks volumes for the wonderful curative powers of the Electrolysis, as her case was considered hopeless. If any are skeptical on the subject, let them try the Electrolysis, and its wonderful powers will quickly dispel all doubt.

Yours truly,
W. M. PROBST.

For Rest.
My feet are weary, and my hands are tired,
My soul oppressed—
And I desire, what I have long desired—
Rest—only rest.

"Tis hard to toil—when toil is almost vain,
In barren ways;
'Tis hard to sow—and never garner grain
In harvest days.

The burden of my days is hard to bear,
But God knows best;
And I have prayed—but vain has been my prayer—
For rest—sweet rest.

"Tis hard to plant in spring and never reap
The autumn yield;
'Tis hard to till, and when till'd to weep
O'er fruitless field.

And so I cry, a weak and human cry,
So heart-oppressed;
And I sigh, a weak and human sigh,
For rest—for rest.

My way has wound across the desert years,
And eases infest
My path, and through the flowing of hot tears
I pine—for rest.

'Twas always so; when but a child I laid
On mother's breast
My weary little head; e'en then I prayed
As now—for rest.

And I am restless still; 'twill soon be o'er;
For, down the west,
Life's sun is setting, and I see the shore
Where I shall rest.

Fall Crops.
W. J. Northern in Southern Cultivator.]

I have never failed to obtain a good crop of oats if the seed were properly put into the ground during September. I have had the grain go through the severest winter without material damage or loss.

I do not claim that my plan is the best, but I do not know anything better.

As soon as the fall rains begin I break the ground thoroughly with a two-horse plow, and sow the seed and scatter the manure on top; and then thoroughly harrow the surface. If the oats, because of a warm winter, promise too rapid advance, I put light stock on them and graze them down. Small areas put in early in this way, with the ground well broken and deeply pulverized, will pay far better than large areas badly "scattered" in during the early spring.

Our farmers take out-sowing too much by "spurts." Oats should become one of the standard crops on every farm. They are easily grown, and are not expensive. They make fine food for stock, and give an abundance of fair forage and litter for manure. Failures from bad management should not discourage the cultivation.

Farmers should rather make the best conditions in selecting good land, proper preparation and suitable and sufficient manuring.

Our methods on the farm are too expensive. Corn requires all the preparation and manuring given to oats, and then an expensive cultivation in addition. Oats will give a more abundant and a better grain crop, and a fair lot of forage, at a great deal less expense. Let all our farmers try five or ten acres of oats to the horse on the plan I suggest, and hold me to ensure if they fail of a good crop.

Once again I want to press the cultivation of grasses. Lucerne, clover and Bermuda grass will save corn and oats, and they are much more cheaply grown than either. Lucerne will keep a horse almost without other food. Indeed, some farmers are reported as keeping their stock on lucerne without food of any other kind. Clover and Bermuda grass have been written up time and again in the Cultivator without success in securing cultivation.

I find lucerne succeeds better if drilled. The ground, as indeed for all crops, should be well and thoroughly prepared. This is the month for oats and grasses.

Saving Ashes.
New York World.]

In any section of the country where wood is used for fuel it will pay farmers well to save the ashes for making soap. The value of ashes has now become so well-known that there are but few persons so wasteful as to throw them away. Persons who do not want them for soap should, by all means, use them as fertilizers.

In addition to their value for making domestic soap, they are worth a good deal to spread on the land after the potato has been extracted. They are especially valuable for orchards, and are useful on close, clayey soils. When they are wanted for a cheap lye is easily constructed, or the ashes may be put into loose barrels or old rice casks placed on an inclined platform so that the lye will drain off into a receiver. The ashes should be kept dry until the lye is wanted. The soap made from hard-wood ashes will be found much superior to that made from the alkalies bought at the shops.

Litter for a Cow Stable.
New York Times.]

The best litter to be obtained for a cow stable is wood sawdust. It is clean, has no disagreeable odor, is very absorbent, mixes readily with the manure, and has as much fertilizing value as straw. It can nearly always be procured for the trouble of carrying it away, and thus costs next to nothing, while straw is too valuable for this use.

Straw is useful for feeding, and, if cut and mixed with manure, is a valuable as hay. Thus hay may be spared for sale, and so much money will be saved. When sawdust is used in this way the manure is handled with more ease than straw manure, being very easily spread on the land with shovels or by the manure-spreading machine.

And I quickly stopped, and kissed her before
That her mouth stood in the open door;
And I would have been in a pretty fix
Were it not that she was a maid of six.

"They say that she takes after her father. Is it so?"

"I don't think so. She has a very small foot."

Commendable Comments.

"Here are a few of the pleasantest words that ever blotted paper."—Stokesbury.

Experience—Comparison—Opinion.

I have carried $20,000 life insurance in the Northwestern Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, since 1874, and have received the largest dividends from them over all other insurance I carry, and cheerfully recommend them to all persons desiring life insurance.—W. F. Moore, Manager New Grand Opera House, Des Moines, Iowa.

I take pleasure in recommending the Northwestern; have carried two policies in the company for several years, and recently took out the third. Have insurance in other old-line companies, but find the dividends in the Northwestern exceed those of any other company.—N. Burrows Babb, Sec'y and Treas. Otto Chemical Company, Williamsport, Pa.

I carry life insurance to the amount of $125,000. I have a policy of $30,000 in the Northwestern, and the yearly dividends have been much larger than those of any other company in which I am insured. I regard the Northwestern as a first-class company in every respect.—S. D. Cockendall, President Cornish Steamboat Company, Rondout, N. Y.

Mr. Cockendall is also insured in the Equitable, New York Life and Connecticut Mutual.

Replying to your favor of this date, I will state that about five years ago I took out a $15,000 policy in your Company; also one in another prominent Company for the same amount and same kind of policy. My dividends in your Company have exceeded the other two hundred and fifty per cent.—Frank E. Block, Proprietor Steam Cracker Factory, Atlanta, Ga.

While other policies in different companies held by me have failed to yield such returns as were stated to be probable, the dividends on my policy in the Northwestern have been larger than you stated they would be at the time I insured, and I know of no higher praise that can be given any company.—J. Newton Fiero, of Bernard & Fiero, Attorneys, Kingston, N. Y.

I am the possessor of five policies in the Northwestern, and may only regret is that they do not represent more money. Have compared dividends and "additions to paid up policy" with friends insured in other companies, and am satisfied the Northwestern takes the lead and will continue to lead.—F. L. Van Zee, Secretary and Treasurer Mill Company, Yankton, South Dakota.

I take pleasure in saying that so far as my experience goes with the seven companies with whom I have placed my life insurance, the Northwestern has, by its larger dividends, furnished my life insurance at less cost than any of the other companies, and thereby earned the right to stand at the head, as I estimate them.—George A. Russell, President and Treasurer National Paper Company, Springfield, Mass.

I am more and more satisfied each year that it is the strongest company in the country and of all my policies. I value those in the Northwestern most highly. When my dividends are double those of the other companies, it is, perhaps, not to be wondered at. I am confident that whoever is seeking the safest and most profitable life insurance will, on carefully looking over the record of the Northwestern, find it to be the best.—H. B. Pratt, 94 Sixth Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some years ago I bought several small insurance policies, leaving it with the companies to give me such a policy as in their judgment was the best. After a time I began to consider these policies I determined that the one furnished by your company was the best of the lot, and in consequence thereof I have taken out since that time. I feel so thoroughly satisfied with the policies written by your company that before taking any insurance with any other company I shall go to the limit in yours.—C. F. Miller, President Milwaukee Wagon Company, Toledo, O.

I carry $100,000 of Life Insurance, and have given the matter of the relative merits of the different companies thoughtful consideration. It is perhaps a sufficient indication of my opinion in regard to it that half of all my life insurance is written in the Northwestern, $50,000 being the limit the company writes on any individual. I consider it the strongest, most profitable and most conservative company in the United States. My dividends are larger than those received from any other company, figuring the dividends on the same basis.—James C. Leavelle, of Penobscot, Houghtaling & Co., Real Estate, Chicago, Ill.
